

Office No. 61.

Residence, No. 17.

Wednesday, Mar. 17.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

John K. Aull, of Columbia, is spending several days in Edgefield.

Mrs. Maggie Sawyer of Wagener is here visiting her sister, Mrs. N. M. Jones.

Mrs. J. B. Kennerly has gone to Blenheim to visit her sister, Mrs. Raymond Rogers.

Miss Mary Timmerman of Ridge Spring was the guest of Miss Natalie Padgett Monday.

Mr. O. Sheppard, Jr. of Atlanta, has been visiting his parents, Mr and Mrs. O. Sheppard, Sr.

Mr. Leslie S. Kernaghan has purchased the residence of Mrs. Bessie Carmichael on Columbia street.

Mrs. I. T. Welling of Darlington is here visiting her sisters, Mesdames J. E. Hart and J. H. Tompkins.

Mrs. John K. Aull and her little daughter are over from Columbia visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Tompkins.

Do not neglect the garden. Giving due attention to the vegetable garden is the first step toward a living at home.

Miss Janie Blakeley who is teaching near Eureka, Aiken county, spent the week-end here with Mrs. L. T. May.

Preaching Sunday morning in the Presbyterian church at 11:30. Subject is "The disease of mankind and its remedy."

The friends of Miss Lizzie Morgan are delighted that she has resumed her place as saleslady at the Corner Store.

There are now 19 dry states in the Union. In April there will be "A Saloonless Nation" in the Edgefield Opera House.

Attention is directed to the quarterly statements of the Bank of Trenton, Bank of Plum Branch and the Bank of Edgefield.

Miss Columbia's Boys and Girls are preparing to show the Edgefield people what the prospects are for "National Prohibition in 1920."

Some time ago Miss Rosalind Ouzts had a telephone put in the McKendree school building, this being the first school in the county to install a telephone.

Citizens of every profession will show to the Edgefield people what prohibition will do for their business. These citizens are Edgefield's coming men. Come and hear them.

On account of an important business matter which will take him away for the day, Superintendent of Education W. W. Fuller will not be in his office next Monday, March 22.

Mr. E. J. Norris is in Charleston attending the grand lodge, W. O. W., as the representative of the Edgefield lodge. He was accompanied by Miss Miriam Norris who is visiting relatives in Charleston.

A chautauqua will be held in Edgefield May 3, 4, 5. The contract was closed last Thursday, 12 representative citizens of Edgefield becoming responsible for its financial success. A fuller notice will be next week.

Miss Winnie Bryan, of McDonough, Ga., has arrived to take charge of Mr. Rubenstein's millinery department for the spring season. This is the fourth season that Miss Bryan has been in Edgefield, her skill as a milliner being more and more appreciated with each succeeding season by the Edgefield people.

The Baily Military Institute Orchestra, directed by Capt. J. F. Entzinger, furnished music at the Sunday evening service at South Main Street Baptist church. The selections rendered were very much enjoyed by the large congregation. —Greenwood Journal.

The State pension board was in session yesterday. The work of passing upon the claims sent up by the county pension boards was begun. The general assembly appropriated $300,000 for pension purposes. Of this amount $17,459.75 will be used for the Confederate home, leaving $282,540.25 for pensions. Pension checks will be sent out about April 15.—The State.

Union Service.

Rev. E. C. Bailey preaches this Sunday night in Baptist church. His subject is "The European war in its theological and prophetic relations."

Baptist Conference.

A conference of the members of the Baptist church will be held next Sunday morning immediately after Sunday school. A full attendance is desired as matters of importance will be considered.

School Entertainment.

Miss Abbie Bryan will give an entertainment at the Beaver Dam school Saturday night, to which a small admission fee will be charged. The money realized from the entertainment will be used to pay for equipping the building with electric lights. Miss Bryan should be encouraged in the unselfish service she is rendering as teacher of the Beaver Dam school. The entertainment. Saturday night should be largely patronized.

Miss Rainsford Elected.

Miss Gladys Chappell has resigned as teacher in the Edgefield field High School on account of the ill health of her mother. The friends of Miss Chappell regret that she has been forced to return to her home in Newberry. At a meeting of the trustees last Thursday Miss Elizabeth Rainsford was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Chappell. Miss Rainsford is well fitted for teaching, being a graduate of the College for Women of Columbia.

A Mission Conference.

Friday, March 26, a mission conference will be held in the Edgefield Baptist church. All of the Baptist pastors in the Edgefield association are invited and urged to attend and send a delegation of representative laymen from their churches. It is desired that every church in the association be represented. Rev. W. E. Wilkins will attend as the representative of the State Mission Board. The conference will be held at 11 a. m. Friday, March 26.

Jeanette Timmons Celebrates Birthday.

On Thursday afternoon last, little Jeanette Timmons celebrated her seventh birthday by inviting a great number of her little friends to a party which will for a long time be remembered by the happy little boys and girls who attended. Many games were enjoyed, and the joy and enthusiasm of youth was overflowing. Each child, in appreciation of the happy event, carried a birthday gift to their little friend and school-mate, and they were all dainty and useful. A sweet course was served which was much enjoyed by the little folks.

We all wish little Jeanette many happy returns of the day!

Mr. Andrew J. Anderson.

Saturday last Mr. Andrew J. Anderson was buried in the Thurmond cemetery near Dothan church, the funeral being conducted by Rev. P. B. Lanham. Mr. Anderson was a Confederate veteran, having served during the entire four years of the Civil War. He was a member of a family that was prominent in the Meriwether section soon after the war. About 30 years ago Mr. Anderson moved to Grovetown, Ga., and has resided there since leaving Edgefield. Before his death he expressed the desire that he be buried near his old home in Edgefield county. He has several children but none of them are living in this county now.

JOHNSTON LETTER.

deeply impressed by tableaux. The first chapter deals with a child's helplessness, and the tableau represented a dear little babe, lying cooing in its crib, and as a soft light was thrown on it, a lullaby was sung.

"The Child and Mother," the second tableau, was shown as "Home Sweet Home" was sung.

The other tableaux represented the child at work, the child at play, the child at work for Christ, and were beautifully presented with appropriate music, and the thoughtful hostess deserves much praise for the successful manner of the presentations.

Later in the afternoon an elaborate salad course with coffee and whipped cream was served.

The play, "The Country Post-office," which was given here on Friday evening under the auspices of the D. A. R., was, to use an expression of our chautauqua man, Mr. Hunt Cook, "a scream from start to finish." At "The Post-office" Mr. F. M. Boyd, P. M., was continually putting up mail, and most amusing scenes, that are daily occurrences in some postoffices, transpired. Each one that took part did excellent work, and assisted in making the affair such a success. Especial mention should be made of the chorus, "Good Bye Mary," by the young gentlemen and ladies, and the Japanese song by six little folks in costume. The play was given to raise funds to place a flag on the new school building, and $78.00 was cleared.

Mrs. M. W. Crouch gave a most enjoyable social affair on Wednesday afternoon, the honored guests being Miss Thacker, a bride-to-be of April 22, and Miss Josephine Mobley. Cordial invitations were extended to about forty friends, and ten tables of rook were soon in progress after the arrival of the guests. The hostess was assisted by Mesdames M. R. Wright, Earl Crouch, John Wright and W. P. Yonce, and an hour with this game was quickly passed. The gifts to the guests of honor were hand embroidered towels in pink and blue. A delightful salad course was served by Misses Sue Smith, Elberta Bland and Elise Crouch. The decorations of the rooms were large bowls of spring blossoms, and their fragrance filled the air.

Mrs. B. L. Allen has been quite sick during the past week.

A most delightful afternoon party was that of Thursday, when Miss Marion Mobley entertained in compliment to her cousin, Miss Josephine Mobley, a bride-elect of April. The whole affair was characterized with much beauty and pleasure, and the rooms were fragrant with quantities of violets. Eight tables of progressive cards were played, and the score cards were in dainty water colors of a bride, this resembling the blonde beauty of the honoree. Mrs. Jas. Culum won the prize, a handkerchief, embroidered in violet, and Mrs. Earl Crouch was presented with a bottle of "ketchup." The honor prize was a pair of violet silk hose. After cards a salad course, with coffee, was served, the hostess being assisted by Mrs. P. N. Keese and Misses Maude Sawyer and Virgie Courtney.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Cogburn, Mrs. W. E. Lott and Mr. Carroll Cogburn were visitors here on Sunday, and attended the sacred concert at the Baptist church on Sunday evening.

Miss Eunice Cogburn, of Denmark, has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. M. W. Clark.

Miss Ida Satcher entertained twenty of her friends on Saturday afternoon from four to six o'clock, and the afternoon being such a balmy one, all of her invited guests were present. The colors used in the decorations were yellow and purple, and the vases of jonquils and bowls of violets, with ferns, made a pleasing contrast. The hostess received her guests in a costume of soft shaded purple etamine. Progressive rook was played, and the game proved a very interesting one, the score cards being pictures of summer girls. An elaborate salad course, with coffee and whipped cream, was served. The favors were bouquets of violets tied with yellow ribbon.

There was a full audience at the Baptist church on Sunday evening to enjoy the sacred concert. These concerts are monthly, the next one to be on second Sunday evening in April.

War price on coffee. We are selling a fine grade of green coffee worth 15 cents for 12 1-2 cents per pound. This opens the way to reduce the high cost of living.

Penn & Holstein.

You Can't Afford to Buy Feed With Seven-cent Cotton.

The increase in acreage sown to oats and wheat in the Cotton Belt last fall equalled about 10 per cent of last year's cotton acreage. Owing to the unfavorable conditions for growth last fall, the lateness of seeding and the unfavorable or severe winter weather, a considerable part of the oats sown were winter-killed. Some of this winter-killed oat area has been reseeded to spring oats, but we fear a considerable loss in the acreage in oats still exists, compared with what have been in oats had none winter-killed.

Some predict that a large part of the land sown to oats last fall, which were winter-killed, will be planted to cotton this spring. This will be a serious mistake, especially if it leads to the growing of less feedstuffs in 1915 than was contemplated last fall.

The south cannot afford to buy a bushel of oats or corn, nor a ton of hay, with the money obtained from the 1915 cotton crop. This not only means that the southern farmer should grow all the feeds needed for his own use, but that he should also grow enough oats, corn and hay to supply the towns and cities of the south. Every dollar sent out of the south next fall for food and feedstuffs that might have been grown or produced on southern farms will make the south just that much poorer and reduce by just that much the ready cash available for business and operating expenses. —Progressive Farmer.
